

Scottsdale Fall for the Arts

The arts come alive in downtown during the second annual Scottsdale Fall for the Arts event, November 7-10, 2013. Seven individual events over four fun-filled days spotlight the city's vibrant arts and cultural scene, which boasts nearly 100 galleries, world-class museums and performing arts venues, as well as an award-winning public art program.

The festivities kick off with the Fall for the Arts ArtWalk on the evening of November 7 and continue throughout the weekend with art sales, special exhibits, temporary public art installations and the opportunity to watch local and national artists create one-of-a-kind works of art live in downtown Scottsdale.

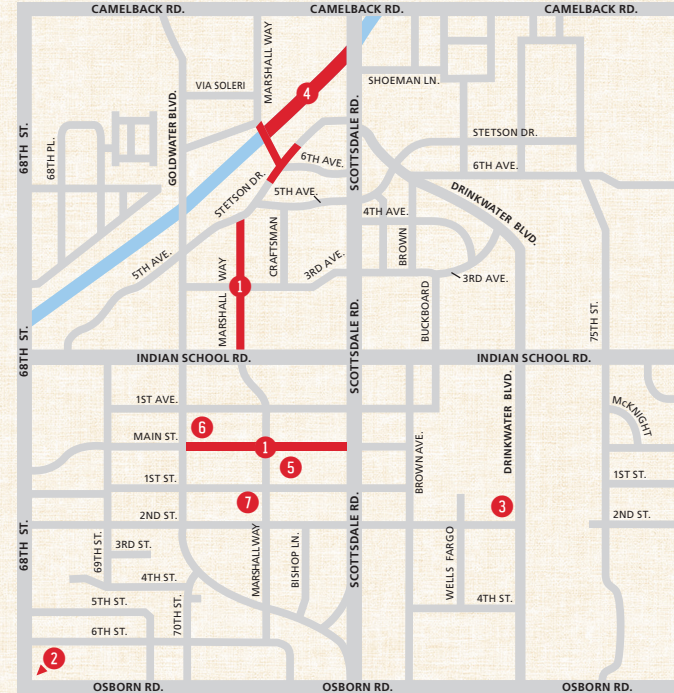

Join us and celebrate art in all its fabulous forms!

Ongoing Exhibitions

Downtown Scottsdale Arts District

The Scottsdale Arts District is home to a wide selection of world-class art galleries, many of which are opening new exhibits during Scottsdale Fall for the Arts. You also can check out the ongoing exhibits at Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art (SMoCA), including "Narrower to the Interior: Contemporary Japanese Artists," "Julianne Swartz: How Deep is Your" (above), and "Inspire." SMoCA also is offering "Origins of Traditional Japanese Art," a free lecture on Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. And located just minutes from downtown Scottsdale, Desert Botanical Garden will once again host an exhibit by renowned glass artist Dale Chihuly beginning Nov. 10, 2013.
